PROHIBITION.

When Gilmore wants prohibition he will let you know about it. There is one kind of prohibition that Gilmore feels interested about, and that is to prohibit people from paying enormous prices for their Clothing and Furnishing Goods. Goods that are not worth the price asked for them are prohibited from having a resting place in Gilmore's Store. Gilmore will not prohibit you from having a careful look over his stock, but he does prohibit any one from leaving his store without a smile of satisfaction beaming on their pleased face.

Wives should prohibit their Husbands from trading anywhere else.

THE RAILWAY HORROR

The Accident in Illinois---960 People go Down in the Wreck.

Unparalleled Scenes of Brutality--The Dead and Dying.

THE RAILWAY HORROR.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 11.—Particulars of the railway accident on the Toledo, Peoria & Western Railway show it have been one of the most shocking on record. The excursionists were from Peoria for Niagara Falls, and the accident happened about midnight. The first engine passed over the bridge in safety, but the second broke through and took with it all, or nearly all, the cars into the river. Ten coaches either went through to the bed of the stream or were piled up in a promiscuous heap crosswise and lengthwise on the track. So far seventy bodies have been recovered and none have been taken from the cars underneath. The number of killed will reach 200, and the wounded, so far as can be ascertained, will number 150. A dispatch from Chatsworth says the train left Bloomington last night for Niagara Falls on the Illinois Central, the intention being to go by that road as far as Chatsworth, and from thence by way of the Toledo, Peoria & Western Railroad. The change was made in Chatsworth in Livingston county, and soon afterward, as the train neared Piper City, the bridge crossing Vermillion river gave way. It is learned from one of the conductors that the excursion train while on the bridge near Piper City came into collision with another train going in the opposite direction, and the cars of the excursion train were piled up on each other in a frightful condition, and from the shock of the collision the bridge gave way. The scene which follows is described as heartrending in the extreme. Many were undoubtedly killed instantly; others were crushed and some were pinned down by broken timbers in such a way that they could not escape. Their cries were heartrending. Men and women called in wild despair for aid. It was a long time before anything like a systematic effort could be made to extricate the wounded and remove the dead. Added to the horror of the occasion the cars took fire, and many who were killed were burned, as well as many who were wounded and unable to extricate themselves, and were thus burned alive. It is estimated that between 100 and 200 were killed outright. A wrecking train from Fairbury, Illinois, was sent as rapidly as possible and adjacent towns sent help to extinguish the flames and save the imprisoned, wounded and dead from cremation. The head officials are directing all their valuable force to the aid of the unfortunate passengers. The full list of killed and wounded has not yet been given and the road authorities declare it will be utterly impossible to give anything like a correct list for several days yet. The work of rescue is aided by calcium lights and locomotive headlights. The belief strengthens hourly that fully 200 victims will be taken out lifeless, with nearly as many injured. Four hundred excursionists from Peoria, Canton, Eureka and other places, many of them well known and highly respected throughout central Illinois, were aboard.

THE WORK OF SCOUNDRELS.

CHATSWORTH, Ills., Aug. 12.—Sensational features were developed this morning as to the cause of the Chatsworth wreck. Rumors were afloat last evening that it was due to a robber who fired the bridge. Little credence is given them. This morning new facts, apparently showing the catastrophe to be the work of an organized band came to light, and the company find them worthy of serious investigation. Supt. Armstrong to an Associated Press reporter said: The more it is investigated the more it appeared to him that the bridge had been set on fire. He had observed many thieves at work, and said he had stopped them, while despoiling the wreck of property, and in many instances robbery of the dead was being brought to his attention. The excursion had been extensively advertised, and the time it would pass over the bridge was known. Citizens say a gang of suspicious fellows had been loitering around Chatsworth for some days. Many of these were found early at the wreck and paid more attention to relieving bodies of valuables than to caring for them. The train men and passengers had frequent contentions with the vags.

The train was composed of six sleeping cars, six day coaches and chair cars and three baggage cars. It was carrying 960 passengers, all excursionists.

A special and cheap rate had been made for the excursion and all sorts of people took advantage of it. Every berth in the six sleepers was taken and the day cars carried 60 people each. The train was so heavy that two engines were hitched to it and it was 11½ hours behind time. Chatsworth, six miles off, was made in seven minutes, so the terrible momentum of a minute can be understood. No stop was made at Chatsworth and on the heavy train with its living freight sped through the darkness of night. Three miles east of Chatsworth is a little slough where the railroad train crosses a dry run about ten feet deep and fifteen wide. Over this was stretched an ordinary wooden trestle bridge, and as the train came thundering down on it, what was the horror of the engineer of the front engine when he saw the bridge was on fire.

RIGHT BEFORE HIS EYES

Leaped the bright flames, and the next instant he was among them. There was no chance to stop. Had there been any warning it would have taken a mile to stop that on rushing mass of wood, iron and human flesh, and the train was within 100 yards of the red tongued messengers of death before they flashed their final red signals in the engineer's face, but he passed over in safety, the first engine keeping the rails as it went over the bridge, which fell beneath it. It could only have been the terrible speed of the train which saved the lives of the engineer and his fireman, but the next engine went down.

INSTANTLY THE DEED OF DEATH

was done. Cars crashed in cars, coaches piled one on top of another and in the twinkling of an eye nearly one hundred people found instant death and fifty more were so hurt that they could not live. As for the wounded, they were everywhere. Only the sleeping coaches escaped, and as the startled and half dressed passengers came out of them they found such a scene of death as is rarely witnessed, and such work to do it seemed as if human hands were utterly incapable.

It lacked just five minutes of midnight. Down in the ditch lay the second engine, Mr. McClintock, the engineer, dead and fireman Applegate badly injured. The cars lay on top of each other, like a CHILD'S CARD HOUSE,

After he had swept with his hand. Then comes the six day coaches. They were telescoped as cars never were before, and three of them were pressed in just enough space for one. The second car had jumped off its tracks and crushed through the car ahead of it, crushing the woodwork aside like tinder and resting on top of the seats, while every passenger in the front car was lying dead or dying underneath. Out of that car but four people came alive. On top of the second car lay the third, and although the latter did not cover its bearer as completely as did the second car, beneath its bottom was smeared with the blood of its victims. The other three cars were not so badly crushed, but they were broken and twisted in every conceivable way, and every timber and beam represented a crushed human form or a broken bone. Instantly the air was filled with the cries of the wounded and the shrieks of those about to die. The groans of men and the screams of women united to make and above all could be heard the agonizing cries of little children. In some instances they lay pinned alongside of their dead parents, and there was another terrible danger yet to be met.

The bridge was still burning, and the wrecked cars were laying around the fiercely burning embers. Everywhere in the wreck were the wounded and unhurt men, women and children whose lives could be saved if they could be gotten out, but whose death in a most horrible form was certain if the twisted wood of the broken cars should catch fire, and to fight the fire there was not a drop of water, and only some fifty able-bodied men who had still presence of mind and nerve enough to do their duty.

DOWN IN THE DEAD HOUSE

mothers, husbands, sisters, wives and children tearfully inspected each face as it was uncovered and sighed as the features were unknown, or cried out in anguish when the well-known face, fearfully mangled, but recognizable, was uncovered. The entire capacity of the village was taxed and the kind-hearted women drove in for miles to give their gentle aid to the sufferers.

The only light was the light of the burning bridge, and with so much of its aid the fifty men went to work to subdue the fire. For four hours they fought like fiends and for four hours the victory hung in the balance.

EARTH WAS THE ONLY WEAPON

with which the fire could be fought, so the attempt was made to put it out. There was no pick or shovel to dig it up and no basket or barrel to carry it in, so desperately they dug their fingers down into the earth which a long drouth has baked as hard as stone and heaped handfuls thus won upon the encroaching flames, and with this earth-work, built handful by handful, kept back the foe.

Evidence of Strained Relations Between France and Germany.

The Dutch Throne---Canadian Questions---Indian Wheat.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—It is feared that serious trouble will result from the succession to William III, King of Holland, who is now old and seriously ill with ladder trouble. He recently visited Carlsbad for a treatment of the waters, but received no benefit whatever. He is now 71 years old, and cannot live much longer. He is the last of the male descendants of the House of Orange. Following his death, if there is no interference, Holland will be governed by a council of Regents. It is now said that Bismarck will interfere and will push to the front the heir to the Luxembourg throne, the Grand Duke of Nassau, one of the German Princes deposed by Prussia in the year 1866 and one of the few sovereigns who afterward became reconciled to their conqueror. He married last year a grand-daughter of Emperor William. The German authorities have for some time been building forts along the Holland frontier. There are now 50,000 German soldiers so dispersed that they can be moved into Holland on a few hours' notice.

FRANCE AND GERMANY.

The Temps notes with great concern the movements of German troops on the Belgian frontier. The German authorities have built an inclosure for twenty-six transportation trains, each one capable of carrying 500 men. This notice, it says, corroborates their information of an aggressive movement of Germany across the Belgian frontier toward Antwerp. A special correspondent finds that the Germans are strengthening themselves in the most remarkable way along the Belgian frontier, but he does not believe that they intend to attack Antwerp under any circumstances. In a movement against France it could not be captured without a prolonged siege, which Germany could not afford. This correspondent says, however, that there is no doubt but what the Germans have perfected all of their arrangements for an easy march into the valley of the Meuse. They are now ready for the rapid concentration of troops upon Kalmedy and Aix-la-Chapelle. This same correspondent has found also that Germany has recently made very large orders on the English for army commissary supplies, which are to be sent by way of Ostend to Strasburg, Metz and Cologne. They are also strengthening the fortifications at these last mentioned places. This correspondent concludes his report by saying that the German public is seriously opposed to a war with France unless the latter power affords a pretext by some unfriendly act calling for retaliation. Two American citizens, natives of Alsace-Lorraine, have been arrested by the German authorities upon a charge of sympathizing with the anti-German element in that province. Bernhard, one of them, has been just set free, after several weeks' imprisonment. Christian Miller, who has lived in the United States for thirty-four years, visited Heidelberg recently to consult a specialist about a paralytic trouble, and stopped at Oberhoffen, his native village, on his return, for a short visit. He has been ordered by the German authorities to leave the province.

INDIAN WHEAT.

Mr. Smeaton, Director of Agriculture of the Northwest provinces of India, has issued a note of competition between Indian and American wheat. He says that India possesses means to compel America to withdraw her hostile tariffs and open her markets to British industry, but is burdened by higher railway freight charges, excessive handling and apparently though not really inferior quality. He advises London merchants to use their influence with the railways to reduce freight rates.

STANLEY'S PROGRESS.

Further advices from Henry M. Stanley say that on June 5th his expedition reached a point half-way between the Yambi and Yambungs, the latter being the furthest point on the Arowhimi reached by Stanley in 1883. Navigation was difficult and slow. Stanley hoped that his steamers would be able to ascend the rapids above the Yambungs, beyond which the river is easily navigated. Stanley expected to reach Wadelai about the beginning of August. From advices received on Thursday it would appear that Stanley had been obliged to await the arrival of contingents left at Bolobo and Leopoldville and had adopted the overland route, which would occupy a fortnight longer.

A WELSH FESTIVAL.

For the first time in the history of Eisteddfodau, which is the special glory of Wales, one of these bardic festivals will be held in London, at Royal Albert Hall, next week, under the patronage of the Prince of Wales and other eminent personages. The Eisteddfodau will open on Tuesday next with an address in the Welsh language by Gladstone, and will occupy Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Thirty of the leading vocalists and instrumentalists of the principality will perform; also an orchestra of 300 voices and a band of twenty-five harps. The music will be exclusively Welsh, excepting some of the choral selections. Prizes will be competed for, and the successful bands will be crowned and chaired.

CANADIAN QUESTIONS.

The Government are not now expected to deal legislatively this session with the Canadian and other emigration proposals. In the House of Commons Mr. W. H. Smith, replying to Mr. Kimber, M. P., for Wandsworth, who took a leading part on the Parliamentary Emigration Committee, said the Government realized that the question was one of great importance, deserving grave consideration, but he feared it was impossible to give a day for its discussion in the House of Commons before recess. The Chancellor of the Exchequer has received an influentially signed memorial from the Royal Colonial Institute urging the early adoption of the Canadian Pacific mail subsidy proposals on commercial, political and Imperial grounds. Mr. Goschen, in responding, gave assurance that the Canadian proposals were being carefully and sympathetically considered by the Government. Sir Robert Fowler has withdrawn his motion calling attention to this subject in the House of Commons.

THE WATER WORKS.

Public Meeting Yesterday---Conclusion of Proceedings.

Mr. Alex. Wilson thought before the matter was taken into court that a resolution should be passed requesting the Council to resign. The material had been ordered and what excuse could the Council offer for not proceeding with the work unless there were axes to grind. An inspector was employed at $60 a month to see that the water was properly distributed, but was told to leave certain parties alone. There was too much water wasted.

Coun. Coughlan said that if a meter were placed on each service he would pay more for water than Mr. Wilson paid.

Mr. Wilson said that was not so; he paid $1.50 per month and that was proportionately more than Mr. Coughlan paid.

Coun. Coughlan said he paid from $30 to $70 per month.

Mr. Wilson—How much do you use?

Coun. Coughlan—I do not use as much as you do.

Mr. Wilson—Mr. Coughlan states what is not true.

Coun. Coughlan, continuing, attacked the Hendry scheme, claiming that it was incomplete.

Coun. Barnard was of opinion that the commissioners when appointed would, if they examined closely into the question, come to the same conclusions as himself. He had supported the Hendry scheme for a long time, but had persuaded Coun. Pearse to get Mr. Bell to report on it. Mr. Bell brought in a progress report and favored the scheme, but on giving it more attention found that it would not supply any more water than at present.

He was convinced that a mistake had been made and could not see why reflections should be cast on the majority of the Council. If his constituents desired him to resign he would do so, but not at the bidding of the Mayor.

Coun. Pearse said it would be well to consider what the duty of the Council was. The Hendry scheme had been emphatically endorsed by Mr. Bell. Mr. Hendry's scheme would cost $720 per annum. Mr. Bell's scheme was an unworkable one and would cost $10,433 per annum. No arguments had been advanced by any member of the Council in favor of any other scheme. The plans which had been prepared by Mr. Bell at great expense to the Council were identically the same as Hendry's. The present Council had been elected to carry out the wish inaugurated by their predecessors. The scheme had been approved by every engineer who had examined it and Mr. Bell had recommended that the work be done by contract labor.

Coun. Higgins said he would vote against the resolution but if an injunction was granted by the Supreme Court he would obey it.

Over half of the ratepayers present when the meeting opened, had left by this time. On a vote being taken the resolution was lost, 8 voting for and 10 against it. The meeting then adjourned.

PECULIARITIES OF TRADE.

The Americans Bearded by the Canadians in their Own Den.

Mr. John Leckie, of Toronto, who is a wholesale dealer in fishing supplies, paid Victoria a visit yesterday on his return from San Francisco, Astoria and Portland, whither he had been with the view of pushing his trade, and from him we learned the following particulars regarding the trade in which he is engaged. Last year he visited Victoria, but with indifferent success. On the mainland the results were better and of so encouraging a nature that he again came to the province. In San Francisco, strange as it may appear, he took large orders ranging close upon $60,000, besides establishing an agency for the sale of his manufactures. Messrs. Neville & Co., of the Bay City, will hereafter handle Mr. Leckie's good in that city, and W. C. Noon, of Portland, controls that district for fishing nets and twines. Mr. Leckie has the agency for the Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, rope, net and twine works and is able to deliver goods in Victoria at cheaper prices than the trade can buy at in Toronto. This is accounted for by the fact that all the rope and twine factories in the east are part of a combination, which has established prices to be charged in all the western provinces, Manitoba and the Northwest. British Columbia is excluded from the pool arrangements. The difference in favor of the trade here ranges from 1c. per lb. upwards, according to grades. It was Mr. Leckie's impression last year that nothing but an unacceptable prejudice prevented him from doing a considerable trade in Victoria. He has since learned the real cause and now believes that he can meet the requirements of the trade. The nets sent out last year by way of sample, or test lots, proved so acceptable that he is confident of receiving large orders hereafter. On the Columbia river the same story is told, which accounts for his success in receiving such heavy orders from the trade in Oregon and California.

Mr. Leckie travels much, is a shrewd observer and business man. With the Sound cities, Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster, he is pleased, stating that nowhere else from ocean to ocean is there to be observed so much substantial progress as is being made in this part of the continent. Everywhere he hears considerable about British Columbia and QUEER LOGIC.

The assertion is made that both Mr. WALLACE and Hon. Mr. HAMLEY have attained that age when it is but right and fair they should be retired. This is the most cogent reason the ordinary office seeker is able to advance, not only in Victoria but throughout the east. The Collector of Customs in Dundas, Ont., died lately. His place was filled by the appointment of Mr. Thos. Srock of Flamboro' who was between 60 and 70 years of age. The appointment was applauded by the government papers as a most proper and popular one. Mr. FORTIER, Collector of Inland Revenue at Hamilton, an experienced officer, against whom no charge of incapacity was ever raised, is about Mr. Srock's age, and was retired the other day on an allowance of $800 a year. Mr. FORTIER is too old to keep in the service; Mr. SROCK was too old to keep out of it!

THE POSTMASTERSHIP.

Our esteemed morning contemporary is never happy when not abusing THE TIMES. When it happens to abstain for a day or two from childish attacks, it generally returns to the charge with increased virulence and a greater disregard for the truth. In view of its recent untruthful denials about the Cabinet appointments, it is somewhat extraordinary that it should again appear in the same role. It now denies that there is any truth in the report that the position of Postmaster is to be given to Mr. SHAKESPEARE, and has the audacity to affirm that the story was manufactured in THE TIMES office. Our contemporary is displaying very bad tactics in thus committing itself to statements that subsequently will be shown to be false. Whatever Mr. SHAKESPEARE, or the SHAKESPEARIAN organ may say to the contrary, the rumor to which we gave currency is well authenticated, as time will prove. Mr. SHAKESPEARE is an applicant for Mr. WALLACE'S position, and there is a tacit understanding between our representative and the government that he will receive the appointment. He may not get it next week, or next month, because changes of this nature are not brought about suddenly or without a reasonable "notice to quit" to the officials who are to be supplanted. But if the promise of the government is to be relied on, Mr. SHAKESPEARE will get there, and he will make the best time possible in achieving the one object of his ambition.

CANADA'S CATTLE INTEREST.

Statistics recently published place the number of imported oxen and bulls into the United Kingdom during the month of June at 36,260, against 31,487 for the corresponding month of last year. Denmark sending 4,064, against 5,096; Canada 16,441, against 12,510, and the United States 11,745, against 9,478. It will be seen that Canada has not only a higher standing than the United States in Great Britain in her cheese products, but was also a larger shipper of live stock by some five thousands of head for the month of June last, which might be taken as a fair illustration. In fact Canada holds an exceptional position in the Mother Country in regard to the entry of live stock. Whereas the cattle which arrive from United States ports must be killed on arrival, and can only be sent to market in the carcass, those from Canada lie under no such embargo. The herd may be started on the hoof and traverse by turn every market town in the Kingdom. This is a great advantage, and one which was only preserved to us by the energetic procedure of Sir CHAS. TUPPER in 1885, and by the constant vigilance and activity of such thorough going and zealous Canadian agents as Mr. JOHN DYKE at Liverpool. It is curious to find how many of our Western farmers are unaware of what is being done for Canada in this way. The shippers don't talk much about it, it being to their interest to magnify their difficulties. But anyone at all acquainted with the run of the cattle trade in England and has seen how United States cattle are landed at the lairages to be at once knocked on the head, while Canadian bullocks are permitted to be taken from market to market to be sold alive, by the lot or in detail—will at once realize how much better Canada's position is than that of the U. S. Our cattle are known to be always free from disease, whereas American cattle are seldom free from it. Disease among cattle in the States is now more prevalent than ever. Farmers in various parts of that country are suffering great losses from the diseases of pneumonia and Texas fever. The continuance of the disease is causing considerable alarm. It was supposed a year ago that pneumonia would soon be stamped out, as U. S. Government officials seemed to be active in the matter and were clothed with large power in the premises. The disease, however, continues and seems to be spreading, and there is a danger that its sweep may be wide extended. Texas fever seems to be contracted when cattle feed upon a lot or trail where diseased quadrupeds have been, though considerable time has elapsed since cattle fed on the grounds. The Texas cattle that were turned back from the great northern trail recently, ostensibly because there was no market for them in the northern territories, would not probably have been driven back, had not owners in Wyoming and other points been fearful of the fever. Men are always ready to purchase stock when they can do so to advantage. There is capital enough among the ranchmen north to have bought the 50,000 head now being driven back to Texas, but they did not wish to endanger the health of their present herds by introducing any diseased animals. Therefore the Texas drivers found no market and abandoned the usual method of disposing of their stock. Were Canada a part of the United States, all our healthy cattle would be placed under the same embargo in England as American cattle. We should at once lose the distinctive position there that we now hold and find so profitable, and our interests would dwindle accordingly.

THE LIBERAL POLICY.

The utterances of the Hon. Mr. LAURIER at the recent picnic in Megantic, P. Q., has given rise to considerable discussion in the press of all political shades. The Montreal Herald, supposed to be the organ of the Liberal party in the French province, in a late issue, discusses the speech and the Liberal party generally in an exhaustive manner, and winds up by saying: "While every credit is to be given to Mr. LAURIER for caution and sincerity, we cannot help remarking that his colorless speech is too much in keeping with those of other Liberal leaders in the past. It announces no positive policy for the party. It is vague and uncertain and proposes nothing new. It contains no platform on which the party can rally. It might have proceeded from a Tory as readily as from a Liberal. It gives the party no cry. So far from stimulating party activity, it will have the reverse effect. It is a sort of wet blanket cast over party action. It is a policy of this kind that has kept the Liberal party where it is. But we feel confident that the most thorough Liberals desire a departure from the old ways. The call for an aggressive policy—for a policy that will give Tory governments some trouble, instead of making things pleasant for them. It is not by adopting its views on cardinal questions that the present corrupt administration is to be overthrown. And the sooner the ides that the Tories can be routed by fighting them with gloves on is abandoned the better. The Liberal party need, first, an aggressive, original policy. Then they want an aggressive leader, another MERCIER. And the sooner they supply themselves with these essentials the better."

The long spell of heated weather in the east, which the Weather Bureau says has beaten the record, has had a restricting influence upon business operations and has been severely felt in many important manufacturing industries in the United States. According to the Shipping List, "The iron foundries and mills have been forced to curtail production, and the high temperature has taxed the endurance of those engaged in the sugar refineries. Several men employed in the Brooklyn refineries have died from the exhausting effects of the weather, coupled with the high temperature in which they necessarily labor inside the refineries, and some relief has been sought in cutting down production. An air of lassitude has pervaded all business circles, and the extreme heat has been a general source of complaint in this as well as other cities."

The Chinese are making some progress. The wall of Conservatism that surrounds their country, higher and thicker and harder to penetrate than the one which separated it from the land of the Tartar, is being broken down. Railways under the direction of Chinese Companies are being constructed in the country, electric telegraph lines are being erected, the telephone has been introduced and so has the electric light. The opposition to all these changes and improvements has been very strong, but the spirit of the age has found its way into China, and has to some extent at least conquered even its inveterate and deeply-rooted Toryism. A number of high class mandarins has obtained the imperial permission to visit foreign countries for the purpose of making observations on the civilization of the West with the view of adopting such parts of it as are in their opinion applicable to China. It is likely that this mission will result in the introduction of more improvements into the Flowery Kingdom.

Salmon Exports.

For the month of July the salmon exports from San Francisco by sea were as follows:

County.	Pkgs.	Value

VICTORIA, B. C.

We, the undersigned, have much pleasure in testifying to the merits of the P. & B. PAINT, for which Messrs. Gulline & Co. have been appointed sole agents. A wooden structure, covered with a roof made of dry shingles, which had received a coat of the Paint was erected on a portion of waste land, between Government street and the Custom-house. After the roof had been examined at the agent's request, and pronounced perfectly dry, a pile of shavings was spread over it and ignited, creating a blazing hot fire for about ten minutes. The fire was then allowed to die out, and upon examination we found the roof intact; the shingles not even charred. We are confident that the P. & B. PAINT possesses the qualities its manufacturers claim for it.

STORIES OF REPORTERS.

A Class of Men About Whom Most Persons Know Little.

Most persons never see a reporter to know one. Tens of thousands in private life have been reporters only at meetings or in public places. Even in New York, where reporting is a very old profession, the business is not clearly understood and reporters are continually meeting persons who say to them, "Do you want an item?" or "Hello! why aren't you at a fire?" precisely as if one's getting was like fishing or was pursued as collectors search for butterflies—net in hand. To tell the world that reporters (in New York, at least) only seek what their city editors send them to find is to run the risk of being thought an impostor. But in all communities the reporters have experiences almost as queer as any they report.

There is a gifted news getter in town, whose weight is about 200 pounds, and the quality of whose work is proportioned to his size. He was taking down a speech in shorthand not long ago in Tammany hall when an Irishman in the gallery spied him and said to his neighbor: "Och, will ye luk at the scrim av that man, and him sthriving his living wid a little pensil!" A New York reporter sent to Newark, once, went to a house he should not have gone to, mistaking it for one farther up the street, where he was to interview a man. The man of the house opened the door. "I am a reporter," said the interviewer. The man pulled him in almost by main force. "For heaven's sake!" said he, "how do you reporter get hold of things before they happen?" He led him into the parlor and shut the door. "Now," said he, "tell me how you knew what I was going to do. I swear I have never told a soul." The reporter, equally amazed, said he guessed there was a mistake; he was looking for so-and-so. That night the man horsewhipped another citizen for insulting his wife. He must have thought the reporter was a mind reader who had come to get the news ahead of time.

When I was callow I was charged with the task of exposing to the public the overcrowding of the public schools. I reached the first school house early in the morning, entered the assembly room of the girls' department and explained to the lady principal that I was a reporter and desired to look through the building. To my horror, she turned to the pupils and said: "Young ladies, this gentleman is the editor of The Sun, who desires to address you this morning." There was no getting out of it. It was fun, too—for the girls. Kirk Munro's experience must be told, also, even at the risk of his having a hurt upon it. He was green at the business when he was sent to report a religious revival in young Dr. Tyng's church. The pastor happened to be moving from person to person in the congregation, and reached Munro just as that young man entered the door. "My dear brother," said Tyng, "are you a follower of Christ?" "No," said Munro; "I'm a—a Sun reporter."

I got a new view of my calling once when the city editor, Mr. Eggart, sent me after something or other on the east side of town. I found my man and approached him with "Are you Mr. Feldsticker?" "Yah," he replied. "I am a reporter of The Sun," said I. "I've been trying ever since to think what he meant by his reply. Perhaps he did not understand me—or else did'nt know what he was saying. At any rate, when I said I was a reporter of The Sun, he replied in a fatherly tone, full of kindly sympathy: "Sh! Veil, veil, you can't help dot."—Julian Ralph in The Journalist.

Late, Late, Too Late.

"My dear friend," said a minister at the bedside of a sick man, "I want to call your attention to the blessed consolation which religion brings in hours of suffering and danger to those"——

"I'm much obliged to you," interposed the grateful patient, "but you are too late."

"Too late?"

"Yes, sir, my physician says that the crisis is past, and all danger is over."—New York Sun.

Item for Baldheaded Men.

On the planet Jupiter, according to Swedenborg, man lives to an age equal to about 30 of our years. They become bald at the age of 29, and knowing this to be the sure precursor of their death, every year, as they approach it, more and more prepare themselves for that event. When we remember how men act on this miserable old earth after they become bald we don't see how they can ever look at Jupiter without blushing for shame. —Leavenworth Times.

The Same Color for the Cover.

Going out in the car the other day I saw a bright little miss of my acquaintance with a library book in her daintily gloved hand, and, noticing the title was that of a rather abstruse subject, I said: "Why, my dear, you select very deep literature for your reading; I had no idea you were so studious." She answered: "Oh, is it? Well, I did not know what to get, and so took this, as the cover compared so beautifully with my hat. Did you ever see a more perfect match?"—Springfield Homestead.

Incurably Frivolous.

Act 1. Scene—Parlor of a modern house. Dramatis personæ, he and she.

He—Don't you think, Julia, that you are rather frivolous? Now, there's my sister, always reading some good book. Why, she tells me she has read 'Ben Hur' four times."

She (innocently)—Has she? I don't think I would like to have Ben Hur.

Denouement—Kisses and reconciliation.

Curtain—Detroit Free Press.

Borrowed Property.

Some strolling Thespians were once playing "Macbeth" in a country town. Their properties were not kept in very systematic order, for when the hero of Shakespeare's drama exclaimed:

"Is that a dagger that I see before me?"

a shrill voice responded from the "flies:"

"No, sir; it's the putty knife. The dagger's lost."—Exchange.

The Mills of the Gods.

George Shepard, of Iowa, has lost three wives by the "accidental discharge" of his revolver. The authorities didn't take any action in the first two cases, knowing that George was rather careless, but when the third wife was peppered out of existence the other day the husband was arrested and held for murder.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Ghastly Way of Putting It.

Two countrymen were standing on the street yesterday when several cadets passed. One said to the other, "Who are them boys what all wear clothes alike?" "They," said the other, 'are them fellers what go to school at the cemetery."—Gainesville (Fla.) Advocate.

Badgering Senator Evarts.

It is to be hoped that Senator Evarts will decide to visit Boston on the occasion of the Merchants' club banquet. The merchants would like to hear the conclusion of his last year's speech.—Boston Traveller.

Plain English Wanted.

New York is to have "Palais d'Industrie." —Boston Herald. Ah, indeed! We have one, but we don't put on any French frills and scallops over its name. We call it the state prison.—Providence Telegram.

Chicago Feet Again.

A Chicago firm announces in its advertisement of Christmas wares: "Our dancing slippers for young ladies are simply immense." That is the kind of slippers to demand in Chicago. They will go off like hot cakes.—Kansas City Journal.

He Can't See It.

Mind Reader Bishop has been offered $10,000 to tell where the $25,000 of which the Southern Express company was robbed is concealed, but Mr. Bishop did not want to earn $10,000.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

The Business He Was In.

A countryman and his wife were in town the other day for the first time, and they were wandering around looking in the show windows and having a good time. Finally they came to a bank, and wondering what kind of a business it was that had no signs or display of any kind, the man stepped in to inquire. There was no one in at the time but a very nobby young clerk—who was also very smart—and as the rustic gazed around at everything, the clerk tackled him for some sport.

"Very fine place we have here, sir," he said. "Can we do anything for you to-day?"

"Well, durn me," said the visitor, ignoring the question; "this beats 'em all. What kind uv a dog-gone business do you do here, anyhow? What do you sell?"

"Oh, we do a great business. We sell mules."

"No, you don't sayl Well, durn me." He stepped to the door and called his wife: "Sal, come here an' look." She came in and he led her around. "Jist think uv it, Sal. Ain't it purty? An', Sal, they sell mules here. That's ther business. D'ye'r good, too, Sal. Jist look at him," he continued, jerking his thumb toward the clerk; "he's the only one they've got left, an' I reckon they wouldn't have him, of the feller he's been workin' in hain't scared his neck in shoddage."

As they passed out, the man remarked softly to his wife: "We may be from the head waters, Sal, but that's no sign we don't know mules."—Tid Bits.

A Confusion of Tenses.

Brother Bruce—Lor', Brer Hotchkiss, specs you's gwine ter grin' dat ax in 'bout fo' secon's wid dat mule 'tachment; but bettah be lettle keerful 'bout makin' de grinstun revolve roun' too fas', 'cause de centerifical motion am liable ter make it splode, yo' know. Brother Hotchkiss (something of a genius—Shoo! I risk all de splodin'. G'lang yo', Jude, what I feed yo'—! Whh! I don't know how dat happen! I nob'ought centerifical motion act like dat!" (Subsequently.) "Brer Bruce, when I gits ter thinkin' 'bout dat splosion, I rudder specs it war de mule dat bust, an' not de grinstun."—Harper's Bazaar.

City Girls and Country Girls.

It is one of the principles of modern sentiment that fine complexions are a country product. Pink and white faces are invariably connected with fields and farm houses, and a fair and blooming skin is counted the country girl's heritage. In contradistinction to that of her town sister. The country girl has not only not a better complexion than the town girl—

[illegible]

Take a company of town girls and a company of country girls—where will you find the smooth, clear, fresh looking faces. Generally among the former. And the thick, colorless, lifeless skins? Generally among the latter. This is a fact that any one can verify by observation.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Progress of the Chinese Missions.

Fair Teacher—Now you understand the moral of George Washington's noble life?

Chinaman—I sabe; George Washeston cut down chelly tlee, he no lie, an' Melican man elect big monumentee to him. But Melican man not like Chinyman. Chinyman do somee dings samee way allee time.

Fair Teacher—I do not quite catch your meaning.

Chinaman—Melican man elect big monumentee to George Washeston what he nevee tellee lie; but Melican man go fight along lie like hellee evely times.—Brooklyn Eagle.

The "Rest of Company."

A gentleman, whose long residence entitles him to be called a Bostonian, some time since had the misfortune to lose his wife. In the course of a few weeks he ordered a monument to be placed over her last resting place, with this inscription following the name and customary formula: "She was the best of company." With such a marital tribute to her mental and moral worth any woman ought to rest in peace.—Boston Herald.

Pretaels.

When you cut your ockwaindances dots besser you done dot on der bias.

Oxberience vas a combass dot tolds you how to get pooty vell along.

Moses Beck has at last imparted the information as to the exact location of "Moses when the light went out." He says: "I vas make me some foolishness, by Gretchen."

Not Likely to Recover.

The news office prepared an article in which he said: "Mr. Dash is hopelessly ill." Before going to press Mr. Dash died, and a hasty alteration was made in the sentence to meet the new condition of affairs. When Mr. Dash's friends read in their paper that "Mr. Dash is hopelessly dead," they were naturally shocked.—Boston Transcript.

A Disappointment.

Smith (with effusion)—Hello, Brown, is that you? I heard you were drowned.

Brown (with sadness)—No, it was my brother.

Smith (thoughtfully)—What a pity.—Washington Critic.

Doing Well Yet.

Father (to rapid son)—My father never gave me money to spend for fast horses, opera tickets, late dinners and the like.

Rapid Son—Oh, yes, but you forget that I come of a more aristocratic family than you did—Life.

Great Story from Buffalo.

A rich business man of this city who died suddenly lately had not spoken to his wife in twelve years, though she had helped him in his business all along, and she did not speak to him even as he lay on his deathbed. A tough family quarrel that.—Buffalo Express.

Another Schoolboy's Production.

"Lafatte sined the desceration of Independence" was a Lewiston schoolboy's last paper announced last week.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

A "Buckwheat" Sure Enough.

A name in point is that of Farmer Wheat, of Bucks county, whose oldest son is named Buck.—Philadelphia News.

Chinese Lottery.

A game flagrishes in Chinatown which should receive the attention of the authorities. No doubt many of our readers noticed small slips of paper pasted on a number of windows in China town. The papers show the prize numbers drawn at a lottery held on Cormorant street at 3 p. m. daily. Large sums are invested in tickets by whites and Chinese, and tickets can be purchased for from ten cents to one dollar. A large swindling concern of his kind should be immediately raided by the police, as is done in the city of San Francisco.

Fire Alarm.

The alarm at 2:40 this morning was rung by a burning ash box on a vacant lot in the rear of Dr. Matthew's residence, Langley street. The firemen turned out promptly but found that Special Officers Hoosen and Stewart had extinguished the blaze. A number of alarms have been sent in from this locality and the cause should be investigated.

Honorably Acquitted.

Officer Smith of the police force, suspended a few days ago, pending the investigation into certain charges preferred against him, was to-day honorably acquitted and reinstated to his position on the force. For keeping the watch and not reporting ½ earlier he was suspended for one month to count from the date of his first suspension.

Attempted Suicide.

A horse belonging to Ou Hing attempted self-destruction this morning by drowning in the harbor. It started from Fisgard street and ran down to Porter's wharf, where it deliberately jumped into the water. The vehicle caught a dray just about the time the horse was ready to make the spring, and carriage and harness were left behind. The animal was rescued.

In the Orient.

Dr. Wad-el-Ward's course of entertainments commences on the 18th inst., and promises to be a most instructive and pleasing affair. He is finent, quick-witted, and has fine descriptive powers. His novel subjects and tableau illustrations of Oriental life should attract all who have any interest in the manners, customs and topography of the country, which the doctor by personal experience is so well able to describe. Course tickets may be had at Ferguson's book store for $1; single tickets 50 cents.

EARTH TO EARTH.

Funeral of the Late Capt. Wilson of the North Pacific.

The funeral of the late Capt. Wilson took place at 4 o'clock this (Friday) afternoon. The remains had lain at the residence of Dr. Helmcken, James Bay, since Wednesday until 2 o'clock this afternoon, when they were conveyed to the Masonic Temple, from which place they were conveyed to the Reformed Church and thence to their last resting place, Ross Bay, where they were interred in the plot of the Helmcken family. The remains as they lay in the coffin in the lodge room presented as natural appearance as if he were taking a quiet repose, being slightly paler than when alive. The coffin was literally covered with floral offerings—top, sides and ends—prepared and placed there by the members of Dr. Helmcken's family. Every appropriate device was observable, the aroma from which perfumed the whole lodge. These were attached to the coffin and lowered into the grave with the remains as they were placed. From the Driard House there came a magnificent cross; from Mrs. Capt. Rudlin a beautiful anchor, as well as many others contributing in this way a memento of the esteem in which the deceased had been held. The gathering of the Masonic fraternity was large and representative of many climes throughout the world. Grand Master A. R. Milne, aided by G. P. M. Dalby and other Grand Lodge officers and W. M. William Mason, and the officers and brethren of the other lodges in the city, conducted the beautiful Masonic ceremonies over the remains in the Temple and at the grave. From the Temple, after the ceremonies had been concluded the body was conveyed along Douglas to Humboldt street. The pall-bearers of which there were eight, four Masons and four of the ship's officers, were Bros. Pearse, Bash and Poore from Seattle and Port Townsend, Capt. Urquhart, of this city, and Capt. Roberts, first mate Anderson, Purser P. H. Saylor and Engineer Lawson. The cortege was a large one, there being close upon 100 Masons in regalia present and a large number of citizens. And thus passed away another well known and familiar form—a man take him for all and all his like we scarce shall see again.

Body to Arrive To-night.

The body of the late Hon. Allen Francis will arrive by the Yosemite this evening. The funeral will probably take place on Sunday.

B. C. St. George's Society.

We agree with a morning contemporary in congratulating the above society on the truly English manner they propose in observing their picnic holiday, advertised in another column, and would suggest to our Scotch friends that they might enter the list in a social, friendly game, and thus add to the enjoyment contemplated.

Give Them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

Materialism.

Dr. J. K. Bailey, of Scranton, Pa., lectured at Harmony Hall, last evening 11th inst., upon the "Mistakes of Materialism," to a small but attentive audience. He endeavored to show, and his audience seemed to think he did show, that the negation, materialism, is not the logical deduction of nature's laws but facts, and that life is apparent everywhere, even in the rock; all matter being but a gross manifestation of nature's eternal, refined substance, which he terms spirit; the latter being the real, indestructable plan of nature's manifestations, while so-called matter is but the fleeting and destructible condensation—solidification of the former spirit. He cited a chain of facts, involved in the evolutions of nature, which he claimed logically proved man to be constituted an immortal conscious entity. The lecture was highly interesting. We understand he speaks again at the same hall on Sunday evening, 14th inst., the subject being the "Seen and the Unseen."

Nearly Drowned.

About half past three o'clock this afternoon a lad named Esnouf, 12 years of age, accidentally lost his footing and fell from the Hudson Bay wharf into the harbor. The tide was running in and the lad being unable to swim was carried under the wharf. Peter George, the cook of the barque Titania, lying alongside, observed the accident and bravely went to the rescue. Jumping from the deck of the vessel he reached the drowning boy just as he had sank below the surface for the third time. The lad was hoisted to the deck in an insensible condition, where the restoratives were applied with successful results. What might have been a watery grave was averted by the prompt and brave action of Mr. George.

To the Electors of the City of Victoria.

GENTLEMEN,—A vacancy having occurred in the Legislative Assembly by the resignation of Mr. Turner, you have a chance of selecting another candidate to protest against, and if possible to mitigate the insane borrowing and reckless expenditure of public money. I am credibly informed that the "million dollar loan," passed in the last session of parliament, is already dissipated and that the government intend to run a bank overdraft for $500,000 more. Now, this is a very serious business for the people of this province to face. It is high time the electors of the city should realize, before it is to late, that they will be called upon to meet the liabilities of the government by a crushing system of taxation. If you re-elect Mr. Turner you not only indorse the "million dollar loan," but you practically accept a principle of policy of the most pernicious, wholly indefensible. A public meeting should be held at once when the measures of the government could be thoroughly sifted, and our heaven born statesmen afforded the sinister opportunity of justifying a course of policy which nine-tenths of our people believe to be iniquitous.

ELECTOR.

Tony Cigars.

From M. Sullivan, M. D., President of the Medical Association of Canada, Kingston, Oct. 19, 1883.—From conversations with Mr. Laurance, examination of his accurate, varied and highly finished classes, together with observation of cases benefitted, I have pleasure in strongly recommending him as a gentleman worthy of entire confidence. M. SULLIVAN, M. D. B. Laurance's spectacles sold only by D. E. Campbell, Fort street.

HON. JOHN SHERMAN,

The Noted American Statesman, on his way to Victoria.

The Ohio Republican Nominee for the Presidential Chair.

The Hon. John Sherman, U. S. Senator of Ohio, and the nominee of the Republican party of the Buckeye State, will reach Victoria either to-night or to-morrow from Vancouver. The Senator is traveling on the overland route via the Canadian Pacific, from the east. He is accompanied by General J. B. Robinson, Secretary of State for Ohio; Col. Chas. H. Grosvenor, member of Congress; Mr. Amos Townsend, ex-member of Congress, Cleveland, and Judge A. Thompson, of Portsmouth, Ohio. This distinguished party came over the Ontario and Pacific junction from Toronto to Sudbury, where they were joined by Mayor Stewart, of Ottawa; Mr. W. E. Searth, M. P., and several of the C. P. R. officials. The Senator and the party accompanying him are on their way to Alaska and will take the next Alaskan steamer from this city. This is his first visit through the Canadian Northwest, but not his first to this city, as he was here three years ago. Whilst in Toronto he was interviewed and said he had been unable to see any difference between Canadians and Americans, and thought it absurd that there should be a boundary line between two countries so much alike. The Senator is a brother of General W. T. Sherman who visited Victoria last summer, whom he resembles in appearance. If he would take off the short grizzled beard which covers the lower part of his face he would look like one of the statesmen of the old school whose forceful character have been stamped indelibly upon American history. He is tall and slim, erect and wiry-looking. He bears well his sixty-four years, his carriage being easy, his eye clear and bright, and his expression keen, if not animated. He is better-looking a good deal than he is represented to be in even the friendly cartoon papers of the country. He is one of the most prominent figures in American politics, and has been so since 1854, when he was elected to the 34th Congress, and especially since 1861, when he was chosen United States Senator from Ohio and given the chairmanship of the Committee of Finance. He was instrumental in bringing about the resumption of specie payment while Secretary of the Treasury in the Hayes Administration, and had much to do with the legislation that has dealt so successfully with their big war debt.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH.

Senator John Sherman was born at Lancaster, Ohio, May 10th, 1823. His grandfather as well as his father were eminent jurists. His father died when he was but eight years of age. He received a liberal education in his youth; started life as a surveyor, but finally became a disciple of Blackstone, and was admitted to the bar in 1844. The next ten years were spent in close work at his profession, though he took part in politics, and was a member of the Whig Convention that nominated General Taylor in 1848, and of that which nominated General Scott in 1852. He became an anti-slavery Whig, and as such was elected to Congress in 1854. He immediately took an active part, and soon a prominent one, in the proceedings of the House, which included the memorable Speakership contest which resulted in the choice of N. P. Banks. He was one of the Committee of Inquiry sent to Kansas, and as the result of his observation and study of the events and tendencies of the time, he entered heartily into the movement for the formation of the Republican party, and ardently supported Fremont in 1856. He was re-elected to Congress that year and in 1858, and was a candidate for Speaker at the beginning of his third term, coming within three votes of an election. He continued in the Lower House until 1861, and was the recognized leader of the Republicans during his last term. He took his seat in the Senate March 29, 1861, and was prominently identified with the support of all the measures for the prosecution of the war, taking a leading part in financial debates and committee work. While Mr. Fessenden was Secretary of the Treasury, Sherman was Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. He supported the reconstruction measures, defended the protective tariff, and took a leading part in the legislation for the restoration of specie payments and the refunding of the national debt. Mr. Sherman was an active supporter of R. B. Hayes for was a leading member of the committee that visited Louisiana to supervise the counting of the returns of that State, and was one of the five Senators on the Electoral Commission. He was made Secretary of the Treasury by Mr. Hayes, and had the opportunity of carrying out the financial policy which he had taken so prominent a part in shaping, including the execution of the laws for restoring specie payments and refunding the debt. In 1880 Mr. Sherman was an avowed aspirant for the Presidential candidacy, and his name was presented in the National Convention by General Garfield. During the long contest waged between the supporters of General Grant and Mr. Blaine, which ultimately resulted in Garfield's nomination, Mr. Sherman's vote ranged from 90 to 97. He returned to the Senate in 1881, and was re-elected for yet another term last year. In 1885 he was chosen President of the Senate pro tem., but declined re-election at the end of the 49th Congress. He appeared again as a candidate for the Presidential nomination in 1884, his name being presented in the Convention by John Forster, now Governor of Ohio; but the Ohio delegation was divided between him and Blaine, and he had only 30 votes. At the Republican State Convention held in Toledo on the 28th of July, he was formally presented to the people of the United States as a candidate for the office of President, that body pledging him their hearty and cordial support for the exalted office of Chief Magistrate over some 55,000,000 people. The Senator, it is said, will enter the Chicago National Convention with a solid state delegation at his back.

SUPREME COURT.

(Before Sir M. B. Begbie, C. J.)

Hudson Bay Co., by R. G. Skinner, agent, vs. George Byrnes and Reid and Hudson. The plaintiffs in this cause sued defendants for $25,000 damages for goods seized and sold by Geo. Byrnes, Sheriff of Cariboo, in September, 1881. The goods were in the possession of H. F. Davis, who was freighting them to Peace River, and were claimed as the property of the Hudson Bay Company. A number of witnesses were examined and the case occupied two days. The jury found that the goods belonged to the Hudson Bay Co., that Reid believed them to belong to Davis, and allowed the plaintiffs the invoice price of the goods at Quesnelle, viz.: $1131.75. Nothing was allowed for interest or storage.

(Before Mr. Justice Crease.)

J. B. Harrison vs. Victoria Transfer Co. His Lordship sustained the verdict of the jury in this case, and ordered judgment to be entered for $1,500.

ON THE WING.

Movements of People We Know and have Read of.

Dr. King, principal of Manitoba College, is expected to arrive to-night from the east.

Mr. J. W. Herie, traveling agent for the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, arrived from Winnipeg last night.

Capt. C. E. Clancey was a passenger from the Sound to-day to attend the funeral of the late Capt. Wilson.

Mr. D. E. Brown, district passenger and freight agent of the C. P. R. at Vancouver, paid Victoria a flying visit last night. He returned this morning.

Mr. Shakespeare, M. P., Mrs. and Miss Shakespeare arrived last night from Nanaimo, accompanied by Mrs. Raybould. Miss Shakespeare returns to England next week.

Mr. Geo. Wise, Registrar of the Supreme Court, New Westminster, is in the city and is kept busy extending his hand to receive congratulations on his promotion from Yale to the Royal City.

Messrs. H. B. W. Aikman and T. S. Higginson, Dominion officials; Captain Lewis, of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, and W. H. Redmond were passengers by the Yosemite last night.

Mr. W. E. Plummerfelt, manager for Messrs. Ames, Holden & Co., of Montreal, in this city, arrived from the east last night. He has fully recovered from the effects of the accident he met with a few weeks since in Winnipeg.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Sprague, of Winnipeg, are at the Driard. Mr. Sprague is an extensive lumber merchant and mill owner in that city. His mill and yards adjoin the Louise bridge near the Ogilvies flour mills.

Mr. Peter McLaren, of Perth, Ont., who recently sold out his Ontario timber limits and mills for the sum of $900,000, accompanied by Mr. John Haggart, M. P., for South Lanark, Miss McLaren and Miss Lees, are on their way to this city. Mr. McLaren has large lumber interests in the Northwest, which he intends visiting during his trip.

Mr. and Mrs. James Angus returned from Vancouver last night by the Yosemite, whither they had gone to meet three of their children and a servant who had come direct from England, and a niece from Minnesota. Mr. Angus' children were Misses Lucy, Amy and Master Alexander. They are from Manchester, where they were being educated; the niece, Miss Jeannie Renny, is from Minnesota.

The Hon. Judge Killam, of Winnipeg, and wife, are guests at the Driard. His Lordship was for many years a member of the legal firm of Ross, Killam & Haggart of that city, the senior being Mr. A. W. Ross, M. P., now of Vancouver. Prior to the honorable gentleman's acceptance of a position on the bench he was a prominent member of the Legislature and a staunch Liberal in politics. They are guests at the Driard.

Police Investigation.

An investigation was held by His Worship Mayor Fell and the Police Committee this afternoon relating to the conduct of the police and their duties in connection with fires, based upon a letter sent to His Worship by Messrs. A. & W. Wilson, Fort street. The evidence of Messrs. Alex and William Wilson was taken as was that of Officers Hoosen and Stewart, Mr. Lambkin, Constable Carter, Officer Lindsay, Edward Hodge, fireman. It was brought out in evidence that Officers Stewart and Lindsay were talking on the corner of Yates and Broad streets when they observed smoke issuing from Fort street, the scene of the fire. One of those officers sounded the alarm of the Deluge and the other that of the hook and ladder house. At the conclusion of the evidence Mr. Alex. Wilson expressed himself as satisfied with the conduct of the police. An adjournment of the committee was made to Monday next to take the evidence of the chief engineer as to the time at which steam was got up and a stream brought to play.

Sir Terrance's Pond.

Mr. Joseph Sears is advertising for names of members and terms of service in the late Volunteer Fire Department. The department disbanded nearly two years ago, and a law suit between the members, regarding the division of the funds, has been in progress. The case was ultimately settled by an Act passed during the last session of the Local Legislature. The department owned two lots on Vancouver street, five acres on the old Esquimalt Road and a large sum in cash. The proceeds will be divided between the members according to the number of months served. The land on the Esquimalt Road will be offered at auction and will no doubt bring a fair price, as it is contiguous to the Island Railway.

The Evangel.

Steamer Evangel, of Seattle, until further notice, will arrive in Victoria every Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock from Seattle and the Islands of the Sound. She is commanded by Capt. Taite, a young gentleman well known in this city and Esquimalt, where he was brought up.

H. M. S. Cormorant.

The repairs to H. M. S. Cormorant are about finished. She will leave the dock to-morrow or Monday. The Constance will be the next to enter for repairs. In every respect the dock is a success, barring its length, and this no doubt will be attended to if properly represented to the government.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co. 106 Wall St., New York.
